There is something wrong somewhere in a system that rewards the pug more than it does a president or a premier. If we knew what we do now and could hark back to the good old schoolboy days the affirmative side of the debate upon "Resolved. That education is more valuable than wealth would have some job getting away with the votes of the judges.

It's a long jump from presidents, premiers and pugs to tennis, but the latter deserves a far better fate at the bands of publicity than is awarded to it in these days of sternious sport, if for no other reason than its immensior no other reason than its immensi-

Paul B. Williams, field secretary of the United States National Lawn Ten-nis association, tells me that there are over one million active players in the country, a conservative figure because the big sporting goods manufacturers believe the numbers reach two millions. In addition, this association has a membership of 300 active clubs and 150 associate clubs. It also sanctions over 200 tournaments. Nobody ever did know or will know how many tourna-ments are played in this country in a year. St. Louis had 24,000 people playing there last year. Any sport with an enrollment like that has a grip on the American people that cannot be overlooked. While it is all well and good to say that tennis is a ladies' game, that only the 'silk stocking' crowd play it, and all that sort of stuff, when we get down to cases we learn things. The adding machine is a great invention. It opens our eyes, fills our pockets and informs us when said neckets are emuly. us when said pockets are empty. Pugse will tell you that tennis player sare a sort of mollycoddle type. Let's see, While champion players rarely do prove their fistic ability, it might be well to size them up when a real fight comes along, a scrap like the world war. In that affair every one of the ten ranking players of American citizenship got into the gume. Dick Williams and Waty Washburn are still in France. How about the great pugs." Jess Willard remained on his broad acres, too proud to box, let alone fight, even for the numerous war charities. Jack Dempsey fought, but with gloves on. None of the trench mud for knockont Jack Our former idol of the ring, the Hon. Jack Johnson, according to meagre reports, was bumming drinks in a Spanish cafe. Nearly all the other pugs were engaged in the pastime of teaching the doughboys how to box.

Probably our tennis players wear. Probably our tennis players wear silk stockings, and probably they are inclined to dodge a fight, but when a real, honest-to-goodness scrap comes along, where the breaks are even and where a man is wanted, they have such where a man is wanted, they have such an unprecedented way of upsetting the dope that we feel inclined to think that it would be far better for the U. S.
